

We Live Here: Bredfield
“Bredfield summer views:
2023 and bygone years”

Summer PHOTO Project
2023

Introduction

This photo project was borne of a desire to communicate through photos and brief narratives, our pride about living in Bredfield, our curiosity about the lives of those who live/have lived around us, and our interest in sharing our experience of living in this award-winning small village of 2022 in Suffolk. Here are the responses to the Summer photo project
“Bredfield summer views: 2023 and bygone years”

October 2021 and two people, from different generations, are harvesting apples from Bredfield Jubilee Meadow and Orchard: Samuel Belfield and Angela Derham. This was the first year in which apples were harvested for the annual Apple Pressing Day.
Submitted by Stewart Belfield

Crisps Meadow in Caters Road just after the heavy rain.
Submitted by Liz Whitman

Best Hedgerow in Bredfield
Submitted by Anne Henderson

My favourite Bredfield tree in Summer.....and Poppies in a new home in Bredfield
Submitted by Julie Crabb

Granny's Secret Garden

The kitchen garden was overgrown with nettles, brambles and bamboo when we moved into Bredfield Place in the October of 2020. Gradually the front has been cleared and is now in its second year of producing vegetables and fruit. The back has been left for wild flowers with a few paths cut through. Our grandson thinks it's our secret garden looked after by Mr Gummage who can be seen resting on an old bench under the trees.

Submitted by Yvonne and Chris Woods

